The University of London is truly one of the best universities of the world. A federation of 18 world-class Colleges and 10 specialist institutes, its reputation for high academic standards has been built on the outstanding teaching and research of its Colleges since 1836. University of London degrees are recognized internationally by governments, universities, employers and professional bodies as being of the highest academic quality. Since 1858, University of London degrees have been accessible to students all over the world through the University of London International Programmes, the longest standing flexible and distance learning programmes in the world. Over the years, many exceptional people, who have studied with the University of London International Programmes have shaped our world. Former students include seven Nobel Prize winners, leaders of Commonwealth countries, government ministers, renowned authors, academicians, judges and business leaders. Today, the University of London International Programmes is truly international in character with over 52,000 students in more than 190 countries. Academic direction for all of the courses offered through the University of London International Programmes is provided by Colleges of the University. Academicians at these Colleges develop the syllabuses, prepare the study materials and are responsible for the assessment of students. This means that students benefit from the academic rigour and leading-edge research undertaken by the Colleges. It also ensures that the standard of award made to International Programmes students is maintained at the same level as the standard of award made to students studying at one of the Colleges of the University. As far as BSc Business Administration is concerned, academic direction is provided by Royal Holloway. Royal Holloway is internationally reputed for the highest quality of teaching and research across sciences, arts and humanities. Since Queen Victoria presided over the grand opening ceremony in 1886, the College is undergoing expansion and development, on the basis of the excellence of its scholarship, Royal Holloway is among the top research-led university institutions in the UK with a world-wide reputation for developing original research. Upon successful completion of their studies, students are awarded the University of London degree. Although the standards of these awards are maintained at the same level as the standards of awards given to students studying at the Royal Holloway, the awards are distinct from degrees or other qualifications awarded by the Royal Holloway. The certificates that the students receive following graduation will state that the students were registered with the University of London and awarded a University of London degree or diploma. It will also state that examinations were conducted by the Royal Holloway.
